

School Self-Evaluation

Information for primary pupils

What is it?

School self-evaluation is a way for schools to look at how they do things, to build on their strengths and to work on ways of improving.

What happens first?

You might do some of the following:

- Talk about your learning in a group
- Fill out a survey

Your teachers might:

- Look at samples of your work
- Discuss what the school is doing well and where it can improve

Your parents might:

- Fill out a survey
- Talk in groups about the school

What happens next?

The school will write a short report saying what is working well in the school, what could work better, and how it can improve.

What should I expect then?

All teachers will work together to make some changes

Teachers will talk with you, your parents and with the other teachers to find out if the changes are making a difference

Some more changes might be made so that improvements can continue
